ROANOKE COLLEGE.—We were pleased to meet in our office, Monday, Mr. J. D. Droher, the accomplished Travelling Agent for the above-famed Institution of learning and that best of all Southern (or Northern) Magazines,—the XIX Century, published at Charleston, S. C.

Roanoke College, Salem, Va., is situated in the midst of some of the finest natural scenery in Virginia, midway between the Alleghany and Blue Ridge chain of mountains, and within six miles of the celebrated Botetourt and other mineral springs. Hollins's Institute, a flourishing Female College is situated at Botetourt. The close proximity of these two Institutions, gives parents the rare opportunity of having their sons and daughters educated near each other.

The course at Roanoke is most thorough, and her graduates are turned out finished scholars. The student at Salem is surrounded by the most refined society and a healthy moral atmosphere, much to be desired. The large list of students from Virginia attest the popularity of the College at home, and the yearly accession of others from other States, speak of its rapidly spreading fame abroad. The "Microcosm," an annual published by the secret fraternity of the Peace in each beat throughout the State, and instead they have passed a law creating two Notaries Public in each Beat in the State, and they are appointed by the Governor. This is done to prevent the foul play of one to prohibit the people from the white country from voting or selecting their own Justices, & the others a cheap means of subduing self-educated or weak-kneed men by throwing them the husk of office, and covering their vanity and weakness with the flimsy robe of Gubernatorial appointment.

They have increased the indebtedness of the State to an enormous sum which surrounds it; its splendid railroads, and in its power, only to the tax-payer. Only two items will be here mentioned—the space allowed this article is not half sufficient to cover the other items.

To the Alabama & Chattanooga Railroad has been appropriated $2,000,000, not of State indorsement, but out and out State Bonds. In addition, $16,000,000 in public indorsement of its bonds, the entire length of the road, which is about 300 miles; amounting to $4,000,000. This added to the $2,000,000 to one railroad. To the Montgomery & Mobile Railroad (a finished road) $2,500,000 of indorsement of its bonds. Making appropriations to two railroads only, $9,500,000.

They have corrupted the ballot box, by passing laws prohibiting one from voting in thirty feet of the polls after voting—or challenging an illegal vote. This was passed for the purpose of allowing the negro and the carpet-bagger who has no locality, individuality, or identity, to vote at different places as often as they please.

They have so arranged the fundamental law, that no portion of the poll tax goes to the support of the State Government.

This is done to favor the negro and carpet-bagger who have no visible property.

They have in the fundamental law, created two legislative bodies to make laws. The board of Education is made a legislative body, the originates all measures on all subjects connected with education.

This legislative body has effectively destroyed your State University, they have a full set of professors with high salaries and nothing to do; and only six students in the University.

They have taken the people hundreds of thousands of dollars to support free schools, and they have divided them out among a score of different sectarians all over the State, and done little or nothing in educating either white or black child.

We concur in the suggestion offered by "Many of the People" in another column, to call a County Convention on the 4th day of July, for the purpose of suggesting to the Executive Committee to name that as the day. This will give us four months to work before the election, and two months in which to determine the action of our delegates in the State Convention, not an over sufficiency of time for either. What say the Committee?

We give most of our editorial space this week to our Correspondents. The fact is there is but little to write about.

The Pennsylvania has been worn out.

The Fenian war, we hoped, would furnish matter for some time to come; but that has ended as suddenly as commenced in a couple of weeks.

Last week's dispatches contained about all there was of the war. The Irish desire more than they have yet accomplished; but they will never get the sympathy of the world until they organize a resistance sufficiently formidable to command respect.

They recur to have incompetent leaders—men not even brave soldiers, let alone statesmen. The last war was hardly deserving of notice in the police reports. When they go at the thing en masse, they have our sympathy.

The attention of our readers, especially those who are seeking health and recreation, is invited to the advertisement of Mr. Joseph A. Peck, proprietor of the new Hotel at White Cliff Mineral Springs, located in Monroe co., E. Tenn. We gave some account, in a letter from these springs, on a brief but pleasant visit last summer. They have been greatly improved since a new and commodious hotel erected, and become quite a fashionable resort.

Mr. Peck is a polite, friendly and accommodating gentleman, who will not fail to give the most perfect satisfaction to his guests.

We assure our friends in this section and South Alabama, that they can find no more beautiful, healthy, invigorating and pleasant summer resort anywhere in the whole country.

It is thought from calculation that the wheat crop this year will be greater than in the years 1857—the most celebrated wheat year on record.

We notice that many of our exchanges keep up the cry of "all cotton and no corn." Now, it was very well for the papers to urge the planting of grain in the winter, when such advice was worth something; but now, when it can do no good, it is time to stop it. "Scant corn" publications only encourage the Western dealers to ask any price they please for produce, and the extravagant promises of a large yield of cotton next year serve to put down the price of the present crop on hand. The supply and demand regulates the price in a great measure in each, yet such publications damage to a considerable extent. For instance, they encourage the hoarding of produce in our midst, which should be thrown on the market.

England.

LONDON, June 1.—The last surviving member of the brigands, who slaved the English in Greece, has been captured.

Address to the Voters of Clayton County.

November next, it will be your privilege, and you are earnestly requested, to elect your State officers and Representatives to the Legislature. This institution, which you have not exercised for a considerable time, The Reconstruction acts and military force, have for a long time placed over you a set of rulers, a majority of whom are ignorant negroes and unprincipled adventurers, not to the manner born, the most base scoundrels that have ever disgraced the human heart. They have not joined the fools and thieves in power, or any other party. They have stood aloof some self-conceited ones think and call their position masterfully learned, but we have reflected and think it will do no good. They have acted the part of devils in the fire, until the vermin and caterpillars have robbed and plundered all the honey from the people's hive. Under this power all can easily go to the poor and helpless, the fools and thieves in power. It is well known that every Democrat and Conservative in the State have denounced from Day to Bersheba, the reconstruction acts, the 14th and 15th amendments, and the ratification of the same. It is well known that these measures have been fastened and clinched on the South by fraud and military force. It is well known to every one, that those issued or measures can only bring about the destruction of the State rather than its welfare. Negro suffrage is a fixed fact, and can not be changed, if we even desired to do so. With these facts before us, why should we not act in concert with the masses to expel the negro from the ballot box? We see no good and substantial reason for doing it.

Then let us settle our local issues, and in this country settle the vital questions.

They have created numerous offices, unnecessary and uncalled for, with large salaries, and filled them with their kith and kin in positions, in violation of the constitution, letting the people vote to fill these offices.

They have refused, or neglected, to provide for the election of Justices of the Peace in each beat throughout the State, and instead they have passed a law creating two Notaries Public in each Beat in the State, and they are appointed by the Governor.

This is done to prevent the foul play of one to prohibit the people from the white country from voting or selecting their own Justices, & the others a cheap means of subduing self-educated or weak-kneed men by throwing them the husk of office, and covering their vanity and weakness with the flimsy robe of Gubernatorial appointment.

For the Republican.

The People against the Fools and Thieves in Power.

This is the platform suggested by the Hanceville Examiner, approved by the Selma Argus, the Whig, and several other journals of the State for the people of Alabama to adopt as a basis to go before the voter.

This platform meets with hearty approval. It substantially covers every foot of ground necessary to be occupied in the coming contest for State Officers, from the Governor down.

This platform is broad and comprehensive, it is "rich and plangent," and will be refreshing when the people of Alabama swing open the doors of the Augus State, to encounter the bold and clever, who have for the last two years, and better, been rioting and feasting on their substance, and who now, by the grace of the powers that be, expect, bode and spurn to ride over the white robes of this state, and continue in power.

This platform is distinctly aimed for every voter in the State to stand on it, and not on what heretofore may have been his party affiliations.—Mark you! It does not purport to say the Democratic and Conservative party vs. the fool and thief in power—it is the people, the sovereign people, that are to be held responsible for the wrongs of the people, and fall into line and do battle upon this platform. The name of Democratic Conservative party is distasteful to some few men who are anti-slavery, but have been tried to the surface by the masters and drifited down to Alabama, placed in power over you, against your will, and in violation of the then reconstruction acts of Congress. These ignorant negroes and carpet-baggers have been succeeded and supported by a few adjunct professors, appropriately called scalawags. These wretches have been tried to the surface by the masters, and floated into office to be used like a circling mob of barrelled and shambled men like sheep in shambles. Your rulers and office holders are composed in the main of the above described putrid humus of mortality.

They have, in a legislative capacity, imposed upon you a set of rulers, a majority of whom are ignorant negroes and unprincipled adventurers, not to the manner born, the most base scoundrels that have ever disgraced the human heart. They have not joined the fools and thieves in power, or any other party.

They have stood aloof some self-conceited ones think and call their position masterfully learned, but we have reflected and think it will do no good.

They have acted the part of devils in the fire, until the vermin and caterpillars have robbed and plundered all the honey from the people's hive.

Under this power all can easily go to the poor and helpless, the fools and thieves in power.

JUNE 4, 1870.

They have to get to be "mighty" clever when they beat John Hughes, of firm of J. M. Carroll & Co. We have been recently eating some of their fried oysters and pronounce them the best we have ever enjoyed, of course we have given them to us. How else would we have got them?

Attention is invited to the change in advertisement of P. R. Rowan. The paper is positively beautiful and a lot of sheets mentioned cannot be true. All fresh arrivals.

SCAMOON OATS.—We have been down and now have an exhibition a good deal above quality of oats, which though not yet matured, is a foot long, over one hundred large bushels on it. These oats are said to grow 55 bushels to the acre. They are being raised by Wm. Crow and Ed. Woodward. It is to be hoped they will be introduced throughout the country next season.

last week we omitted to mention theings in the advertisement of E. J. Woodward's Sons. It will be seen by friends to it that they are now preparing to sell all kinds of Steam Machinery and agricultural implements at manufacturers' prices. They have also added greatly to their already large and useful stock of Dry Goods, and John "Lige" and "Ed" will, with unusual courtesy take pleasure in showing our customers.

The ladies will be glad to learn that Joe H. Sergeant contemplates establishing at his residence in a few days, a Ice Cream Saloon. He has just received a new Arctic Refrigerator, capable of freezing water into solid ice, and consequently can always have it on hand.

Being at his house, the ladies can go directly and avail themselves of this cold and delightful delicacy. He well understands how to get up a nice thing and the Ice Cream Saloon will be one of the features of the place.

We hope it will receive a sufficient patronage to make it a permanency.

When ready, the fact will be announced by advertisement.

Those desirous of learning the language by rubbing up on French, have a rare opportunity, to avail themselves of the services of Andole G. Rodriguez, of Paris, a finished scholar, at present staying at the Jacksonville Hotel. He will give pleasure in giving lessons at any parlor or place designated by the student.

We have for some weeks been publishing the advertisement of the Daily Microcosm Register. It is the largest and one of the best dailies in the South. It has the advantage of the true metal and we would like to see a club made up here for it. Merchants particularly who wish to keep up with the Mobile and New Orleans greater market would do well to subscribe.

PRIVATE SECRET.—While on the street yesterday, we heard a gentleman who has money of a Pennsylvania company for investment, ask Hon. Thos. A. Walker of this place, the price of some valuable iron beds and mineral lands lying just outside the incorporation.

"Nothing," was the general reply, "more than an assurance that they will begin work soon, and securely protect my adjacent farming lands."

Give all the people of Jacksonville such a spirit, and she may crack her fingers at the world. She will certainly be a great city. We would ask fate no more and "run" on cause and effect. Public spirit is what Jacksonville now "most desires" at this time.

Attention is invited to the card of the Misses Duncan of Oxford. They have a very fine stock of goods in the millinery and both good milliners and mantua makers. They are most estimable ladies and we wish them abundant success in Oxford.

Attention is invited to the advertisement of the American Emigration Agency, London, England. We will notice this advertisement more at length in our next issue.

We regret the necessity which compels us to leave out, the communication on the subject of water works, this week. It will appear next week.

People who have old army guns can have them made into good shot guns with small tubes &c., at Beyseig's for $3. We have seen an elegant one made for C. B. Sisson.

We understand that a Corps of Engineers of the Opelika & Guntersville Road were to have been here yesterday. It is hoped they will find good passage across the mountain.

Col. Pennington, Pres. of the E. O. G. & R. R. was in our office Wednesday. We regret we did not see him. He was looking after the interest of his Road.

The astonishing success of the Hungarian Balsam, in the cure of the common cold, warrants the proprietors in soliciting from the public the worst possible cases that can be found in the country—cases that seek relief in vain from any of the common remedies of the day, and have been given up by the most distinguished physicians as confirmed and incurable. The Hungarian Balsam has cured, and will cure, the most desperate of cases. It is no quack nostrum, but a standard medicine, of known established efficacy. For sale by all druggists.

HO-HO-HOES.—Farmers are invited to call & examine the large Stock of HOES at MONTGOMERY BROS., which they are selling off cheap.

WANTED.—A white woman who knows how to do honest work for good wages. Apply at this office.

THE FENIAN INVASION.

Battle of Trout River.

The New York Tribune's special correspondent in Canada gives the following account of the battle of Trout River, between the Fenian invaders under General Staff, and the Canadians and British troops:

General Starr crossed Trout River on the morning of the 27th, and advanced with his command. The paper is positively beautiful and a lot of sheets mentioned cannot be true. All fresh arrivals.

Yosemite.

If there is a place on earth that should be left as God made it, that place is in the valley of the Yosemite, and we much fear that the present Congress will turn it over to showmen, who will turn it into a beer garden, if no worse. In the year 1851, some white men who were searching for stock stolen by the Indians, came upon this valley of the Yosemite, which had never before been seen by white men. Of this party a Mr. Hutchings was one. This place is a valley some seven miles long, and in no place more than a mile and a half wide. It is surrounded by walls of granite, which, for six miles, are from 2,000 to 5,000 feet high. Over these the water comes tumbling down in a style that shames Lodore. The highest of these several falls is: Bridal Veil Fall. 940 Yosemite Falls there in number 2,634.

Vernon Fall. 350 Nevada Fall 700 South Fork Fall 600 Royal Arch Fall 1,800 Sentinel Fall 3,500

These are but a few items in the scenery account of this wonderful place. Sentinel Dome is a mile high, and the most wonderful in the world. The United States granted it to the State of California to be forever preserved as a pleasure ground for the people of the United States. Three men have squatted in it without a shadow of title, and ask that the land may be granted them. Out of this they would make a show ground, and are now before Congress pressing their claims. It is to be hoped that Congress will not make the grant, or in any way turn Yosemite over to speculators.

A Georgia Legislator.

We find the following letter, from a negro member in the Georgia Legislature, in one of our exchanges. It is too good to be lost. With such a set of tools in official position, led on by the unprincipled scoundrels who rule the hour, have we not a glorious future in prospect:

Georgia Times.

GEORGIA LEGISLATION.
House of Representatives, Atlanta, Ga., April 18th 1870
To the Editor of the Georgia Herald, Sir I receive a communication to day from ThomastonGeo— Stating that it war reigned in the county of Upson that I war in favor of cutting a part out of upson for the purpose of creating anew county which Barnesville Geo— would be the county site. I take this occasion to say to the people of upson that the above rumors air false I oppose to all such antirrepublican cok and always has bin, and I will say further that no cok or combination with money or otherwise, are abull, to Entice me nor the majority of the members of this legislature to stape to thay diecillian plot.

WILLIAM FELDOR,
Rept: of Upson!

The Josh Billings Papers.

There iz one kritter in this world whose troubles yu kant console, and she iz—a settin hen.

Those persons who spend all ov their spare time watching their simtions, are the kind who enjoy poor health.

Whenever a minister haz preached a sermon that pleases the whole congregashun, he probably wont preach one that the Lord wont endure.

I kant tell exactly how mi labors yung ones ought tew be fetched up, but i aint so cleear about mi own.

There iz sum folks in this world who spend their whole time hunting after righteousness, and haint got eny spare time tew praktiss it.

Adversity has the same effect on a man that severe training duz on the puglist—it reduces him tew his fighting weight.

How Menny people there iz who go into society just for the puspus ov tolling over their akes and pains, their gripes and grunts! Such people ought tew be sent at once to the pest house.

The man who haz never bin tempted, dont kuo how dishonest he iz.

James Selby Lewis, a London type settor, has been proved the rightful heir to an estate in Buckinghamshire which has been in chancery 68 years. Strange to say, there is a trifle left of the property—about $3,000,000.

Brigham Young paid $75 to take his family to a circus the other day, and only took part of the children at that!

A LAMENTABLE AFFAIR.—A heart rending occurrence took place a few days ago in Montgomery county, Md. A young lady, of the best respectable family, a widow of considerable means was engaged to be married to a gentleman in the neighborhood, but the match was opposed and prevented by her family. The lady threatened revenge for their unkindness, and a few weeks ago carried her threat into execution in a terrible manner, by shooting a negro man, formerly a slave of one of the farmers in the vicinity. Nothing was heard of her until a few days ago, when her family received a letter from some town in Massachusetts informing them that she had married the negro. The sad affair has plunged a large circle of friends and relatives in the deepest gloom and sorrow. For many and obvious reasons we withhold the name of this unfortunate and misguided young lady.—Ellicott City Times.

A Marvelous Youth in Florida.

The Playmate of Rattle Snakes, Scorpions, Centipedes, Wasps and Hornets.

The Key West Dispatches relates the following of a youthful magician in that city:

For the benefit of the outside world, we have to put on record the fact that in our island city there lives a youth who, in himself, is one among the great phenomena of the age. Listen and be the judge yourself. He can handle snakes, scorpions, centipedes or what not, with perfect impunity. He makes pets and play fellows of the large kind of rattle snakes twisting them around him and dallying with their forked tongues and their ten or twelve rattles! He actually has carried scorpions in his bosom and wasps and hornets in his sleeves and pockets, without receiving bite or sting. In the loneliness of the grove or forest, or in any secluded place infested with snakes, he can, by a few talismanic words, call around him any number of snakes, when he can charm into perfect obedience to all his mandates. He can pick them up and lay them down at any given place, and at his bidding they will remain there until he returns, after an absence sometimes of hours.

He can take a rat, or a mouse, and so manipulate it—so put that inexplicable tyrant spell upon it—that it at once becomes a mute suppliant for favor it quiescent, and may be tumbled about at pleasure. The young magician avers that this miraculous power is given him by spirits—whether good or evil, he knows not.

We could relate many incidents in this connection illustrative of our little friend's necromantic faculty of subduing the reptile creation; but the foregoing suffice.

On his death-bed, a distinguished humorist requested that no one be invited to his funeral, "because it's a civility I can never repay," said the dying wag.

It is estimated that over a hundred young ladies are at present studying law in this country. Probably they will all become mothers in law one of these days.

It is said that Sam Hildebrand, the Missouri outlaw, has gone to the Red River country. He passed through Sioux City a few days since, and a local editor, who interviewed him, counted 476 notches on his rifle stock, each notch indicates one sole less in the world. His band will meet him in the Red River country, where they purpose joining arms against the red coats.

72,000 Majority in New York.

The election for State Supreme Court Judges in New York has resulted, so the telegraph of Tuesday night informs us, in seventy-five thousand majority for the Democracy. This result has been attained in spite of the evasion by the World of the great issue made by the reconstruction measures of the Radical party. It is also attested in spite of the "Foreign Domestic" movement advocated by the World and thrust forward in the face of the noble message of Gov. Hoffman and the speech of speaker Hitchcock, repudiating the bogus amendments to the Constitution. The New York Democratic press have spoken hotly and manfully against quieting the questions which have agitated the political world for the past four years. The World has had few sympathizers.

The New Democrats have stood firmly up to the policies of the Pennsylvania party, and instead of losing the State, as was prophesied by the enemy, have increased their majority of ten thousand, up to seventy-five thousand.

In New York the noble Democratic masses stand just as the Philadelphia Agre declares that the Pennsylvania Democracy stands. The Age says:

"In city and country the Democratic party is a unit in opposition to the fraudulent and infamous XVth Amendment. There is not a break in the line. Not even a hair from his head. All are ready for the conflict to begin, make the white man's country and a white man's government, and an inheritance fit for the children of white men. The attempt of the Radicals to make the question appear a settled one, and thus prevent the serious defection in their ranks which is now taking away from them thousands of voters who, although they are Republicans, are white Republicans, has utterly failed. The contest will go on until right again is there, and the country ruled by the race who raised it from a few weak colonies to an empire of population, wealth and renown!"—[Montgomery Mail.]

Unreconstructed.

The spirit of rebellion has broken out again. Just listen to the following from the "unreconstructed rebels." We are willing to wager the honesty of some of our bad paying subscribers that Texas men's hands are just dripping with "loyal gore."

Hear him:

"Our last dispatches announce that General O'Neal, with his fallen army, has absolutely invaded Canada, and the war has begun. We are in favor of all kinds of rebellions against all kinds of Governments, even against the British, which we consider the best in the world."

Southern (Texas) Banner.

The Rome man gets worse; but for better cause: The Texas man's remarks were superstitiously made: Let him be "thoroughly reconstructed." Ye Upright! how can you talk thus about the loyal, the elect, the honourable Yankee rulers of this "best Government the world over saw!" Do you suppose for an instant that were you again laid your chivalrous breasts before the open brosses, that Brother Johnathan would fail to pit his Dutch, Irish, Africans and all other nationalities against you, and then set him down to making money out of the job? Most certainly he would.

And then we must "have peace" you know. Choke it down, smother it. You cannot fight the world now. But hear the Rome man. Will not another lot of our bad paying subscribers, that he is Grand Titan of the Dominion, at least. He is too savage for a mere Grand Cyclops.

"Resistance to Tyranny is obedience to God" is the latest adopted motto of the carpet-baggers at Montgomery. Of course they will adopt it only so long as it takes to settle their family curse. It all grew out of the fate and imprisonment of Reynolds, Auditor of State, by Judge Busteed.

Meeting of the Stockholders of the S. R. & D. R. R. at Patona.

Yesterday we in company with others of this place got aboard the train, by our watches, at a quarter past eleven, and reached Patona by the time we had them safely repacked in pocket. On arrival it was found that the Sedna and Tadigae delegations had gone to meet the Board of Directors and that the train from Rome had not arrived. While waiting for it, instead directed us to the grove where the barbecued meats were being prepared. Here we found Misses W. Harris, McCleath and that best of all catchers, Gilley, busily engaged in raising deliciously browned meats from the "ditch" and sending same to the Depot where the table was spread. For a time (short time) visions of machine-hope faded before the tempting sight and we candidly acknowledge it, our stomachs got the better of our "public spirit." The men mentioned above, had toiled all night long without sleep to present an acceptable bill of fare and cannot be too highly praised.

The following which we take from the New Brunswick, New Jersey, Times, ought to arouse in the breast of every Southern man a bitter and execrable hatred to the Yankees who are not here to "rule" over our land. If after this exhibition of demoniac spite by the officials of the government toward our people, there is a man living in the South who would not gladly swear that government damaged to a time, he deserves to be a slave.

It is government—it is a miserable despotism—at the head of which a second-rate Loyalist stands in all the gloom of a state of abject misery. It is a murderer and a robber. Having stolen the ground on which they paraded their might to the world, they in it high heaven with their blasphemous rites.

Let every man, woman and child remember that insult to our dead; let it rankle in our breasts until the time will come when we can arise in our wrath and hurl these miserable monsters, who disgrace the name of man, to the depths of hell.

President Johnson, in his Cabinet attended the dissolution ceremonies at Arlington Cemetery, Washington, and General Logan delivered an address. Two ladies and a gentleman who placed some flowers on the graves of some Confederate soldiers were brutally assailed by members of the Grand Army, and their flowers trampled into the dirt. A Southern lady dressed in mourning attire, while passing a grave, the head-board of which bore the name of her son over the word in glowing letters, "Loved," quietly left a crown of roses on the green sod, and was passing on, when the harsh voice of one of the committee-gentlemen ordered her to take it away again, or he would throw it among the crowd. The lady burst into tears, but was compelled to obey.

The Grand Army (so called) of the Republic around Washington have repeated, this year, the brutality of last, in refusing to allow friends the privilege of decorating the graves of Confederate soldiers buried there. The same action last year created a tremendous burst of indignation from Leave hearts on both sides of the line. The men who do these things may have worn the blue; but they are not soldiers in the strict sense of the word. The soldiers who fought in Virginia and around Washington last year have to thus insult our dead who fell there. Not! The men who do this thing are bummers and cowards—men who have become martial since the war, and who would run like whipped hounds before these same Confederates whose bones they insult, could they be resurrected, shoulder musket and again wear the gray. We could contrast the courage of the Southern people, who we believe decorate all graves alike—both Federal and Confederate—with the brutality of these bummers; but we should as soon think of contrasting an angel and a sinner, or an honorable man with Gen. Lee, than the infernal scoundrel who prominently officiated in this annual insult to us. Let us not fret over it. We should as soon think of chastising the dog that barks at us. The day will come when these rascals will be licking the feet of the South as they did in the day of their power. We cannot think that any of the Soldiers of the army engaged in it. They exhibited a mere noble spirit at Appomattox and elsewhere. It was the cowards and bummers and if Grant stood by and witnessed, unabashed, (as the papers say) the insults offered mostly who fail would have strewn flowers on the graves of dead sons, he is the greatest coward and bummer among them.

JUNE 4, 1870.

ANIMALS REASON.—We have often thought that animals possess something more than instinct, and consequently that they have a "hereafter." If the following device of rats don't establish not only the fact that they reason, but that they are really possessed of inventive genius, we give it up. Here is the story.

A son of Mr. Reid, three miles from town discovered three rats approaching a hen's nest at the stables. For some time they maneuvered around it so that to determine how to get the eggs off to their holes. At last after squirming around awhile, one fellow deliberately rolled over on his back with his head to the nest. The other two then rolled an egg on his breast which he clasped tight with his feet. They then both got hold of his tail and dragged off the booty in real sled style. The Old Boy is good for these three cunning sinners certain, if we admit anything further than instinct, for them. The truth of the above can be vouchsafed by him who's veracity is unimpeachable.

We call the attention of our readers to the inducements held out by the new firm that style themselves the "Cheap Men." They merely ask a call, and want all to judge for themselves.

Their stock is large and varied, and that of Readily Made Clothing particularly extensive and cheap. Give them a call.

We had the pleasure of meeting frequently, last week, Maj. A. M. O'Neal representing the firm of Sherman Bros., New York. Maj. O'Neal represents the best Hardware House in New York, and deserves, because he is a most thorough, winning gentleman and an Alabamian, a more than ordinary degree of consideration at the hands of our merchants. We knew him before and during the war. He was at West Point when the Revolution began, and did not hesitate to abandon all his prospects and cast his lot with his own people of the South. We commend him to merited wherever he may go.

FAKE WHEAT.—We were handed the other day, a bunch of wheat, mislabeled by Mr. P. Snow of this place. Some of the heads contained 12 meshes on a side some of the meshes 5 grains and the heads from 80 to 100 grains.

J. B. Williams, Esq., has also exhibited fine specimens—in fact the crop generally is extraordinary.

We understand that summer visitors have come to Jacksonville and gone away for want of accommodation. This will never do. We ought to be able to accommodate at least two hundred. They come for the summer months and do not expect great things in the way of accommodation. They come to rusticate and are prepared to put up with inconveniences. All they want is to get into private families. Let room be made for them. After a few days acquaintance we will be glad that we have taken them in.

We have often read of Iowa and Illinois fish showers, &c., but never believed anything of the kind until we had an ocular demonstration. Yesterday while walking from the Rail-road meeting to the store of one of our most worthy merchants, immediately after a shower, we picked up a beautiful spotted trout, about one half inch in length, which must have come from the clouds, as there is none of the species in our creeks except a mountain stream which is never fished in. It was barely dead when we picked it up. We believe henceforth in fish showers.

On behalf of the friends of the gentleman named, we wish Capt. Barney for a free pass over the Rail-Road, for the Rev. Mr. Blue and a half-free pass for Rev. W. R. Kirk of the Tallasdega circuit, who pays us an occasional visit. If the Captain could only unfreeze toward Jacksonville and pay the town an occasional visit, we would soon be able to count him among her admirers.

We were particularly struck yesterday, at the Rail-Road meeting dinner, at the handsome way in which Mr. Henry Barney dispensed the hospitalities. He did the work of about four servants in getting the good things around. Indeed, but for Henry, we can see how the dinner would have gone off successfully. He understands the amenities, as both Shanks of the Daily, and the representative of the Republican can attest.

To the Mayor and Councilmen of Jacksonville.

GENTLEMEN:—I beg leave to call your attention to the important question of supplying the town with water. I shall confine no time or labor in attempting to prove the importance of this self-evident proposition. The only question to which I desire to invite your attention are first the practicability of the enterprise, and second the cost of the work.

It is well-known to all that the side and slope of our beautiful Blue Mountain, is beautifully supplied with the best and purest of free-stone springs. The limits of your Municipal Corporation reach the base of this mountain. Water in such abundance can be conveyed in pipes to the public square, from thence to the water of the town. The practicability of doing this at this time, is not an open question.

Many years ago four or five of the citizens of the town (among whom was the editor of this paper; Mr. J. F. Grant) brought water in pipes made of pine logs to their residences. The original cost being five or six hundred dollars. If it was practicable for this small party to convey water from the side of the mountain over the Nisbet hill to the centre of the town, it is not clear and evident that the Corporation of this town can do the same thing by the use of iron pipes.

The practicability of raising the water to the public square, I repeat, is not an open question. It has been demon-

In the next place I will give you the cost of one mile of two inch cast iron piping. One mile is 1030 yards or 5280 feet, at 20 cents per foot will cost $1056.00. I do not know the exact distance the pipe will have to laid, I suppose a small fraction over a mile. When the exact distance is determined the precise cost of the piping is easily obtained.

From these lists I have come to the conclusion that water can be conveyed from the mountain springs to the public square for $1,300 or $2,000.

I am satisfied that $2,000 will cover the cost of the pipes and laying them under ground. If this be true, will the town council hesitate to take steps to accomplish the grand object?

Public and private necessity requires that the town should be supplied with water. A few years ago, the town hardly deserved having supplied by an accident fire. Sooner or later it would be destroyed by fire unless steps are taken to guard against it.

Bring water from the mountain and it will subserve the purpose of a fire engine—by preventing houses so arranged as to attach to each hydrant you can elevate the fountain head to throw water over my house in town. Or you can bring water to the top of the Nisbet hill deposited in a reservoir, which will be easily accessible to throw water over the top of the country houses. Bring water from the mountain, it is much better for domestic purposes than the lime stone spring. Consult the laundry who have cleaned soiled clothes with the free stone water from the mountain and from the lime stone spring of the town and we will tell you the mountain free stone is greatly preferable.

Bring water from the mountain and it will subserve the purpose of a fire engine—by preventing houses so arranged as to attach to each hydrant you can elevate the fountain head to throw water over my house in town. Or you can bring water to the top of the Nisbet hill deposited in a reservoir, which will be easily accessible to throw water over the top of the country houses. Bring water from the mountain, it is much better for domestic purposes than the lime stone spring. NOVEMBER AFTERNOON.

BY ANNEKA HARDING DAVIS.

The wind of the Delawares was keen. It reddened the noses of pretty young girls hurrying along Chestnut street, and brightened their eyes; their plaid cloaks and scarlet plumes fluttered in the red sunset glistered on the windows; people called gayly to each other as they passed; out of every area within earshot every sound of dinner. The world of men Boston had never seemed more invitingly good-humored.

"How gay like this blow, Sam! Snells Wharf!"

"How goes it, Henry?"

"Not so good now, Sam?"

"Not so much as this. It was little Joe Houston, one of his fellow-clerks, who had clapped him on the back."

"Good news? no good news," turning gruffly away.

You finished the fantastic little fellow would stay with him. He felt terribly alone—as he had never done before in all his life—things had reached such a narrow strait with him to-day."

"Yes, indeed. You're marvellous since you've been sick. Do you think you're the first man that's had typhoid?"

"I've lost more than health. I find to-day Stouch stopped my salary after the first week."

"Humph! But after all, what's money, boy? Can solid dust make the bosom's lord sit lighter on their throat?" tipping his gaudy little waistcoat theatrically. "Anyhow, I don't think Stouch knows anything about it."

"What does that matter? It's gone. I've been saving for years to pay off the mortgage on our house. I'll have to take the money to clear off the debts of the last three months, and the mortgage falls due next month."

"That's the devil's own luck! Such a snug little roof how long have you lived there, Sam?"

"I was born in it. It's the Bender home-stead. I've been saving over since I was married to pay off that mortgage. But just now—"

"Macy's done her share of saving too."

Bender was silent a moment.

"I have no fault to find with my wife," he said, coldly.

"No chance of renewing?"

"None. He is glad of the chance to foreclose."

"Too bad, too bad!"

He was chewing his shiny mustache. Joe was always fatigued and in motion. She's a bride's King, he thought. She's a bride's King! Know her? She would be worth a fellow's while to cut in there, he'd say. If you're nothing more to say I'll join her. Sam! I'm eager for growing up red in his hair as the young lady comes."

"I've not got time to go to her," he said.

"I'll just catch his cap and skipping off to the side of the large, dimpled blonde, who was now absent of them.

Heavy, lustrous silk brushed against Sam as she swept by.

With a bound John joined her, he spoke eagerly, receding back to Sam; then they both laughed.

What had induced Bender to make a confidant of the man? He cursed his own folly, looking after him as he skipped along, the grasshopper-like, with a smile to think Joe was so well-heeled as a woman.

But what did it matter to any man that he stood there ruined to-day, the patient toll of years away in one's bones? What did the world care? Or God?—if there were a God?

He looked for a few minutes steadily over the heads of the guy, moving crooked, into the cloudy sky.

Only a year ago Sam had been a right chivalrous youth, a class of boys in his Sunday-school. He tried to teach them to trust in a living Christ, to trust in each other, constantly growing stronger himself from the teaching. Now—

It was not the loss of a moment. But that night Bender snatched up his coat and hat.

He walked down the street, his head on his breast. Then he came slowly back to the door of Sam's waterworks. In a few moments he could know the word, and he would shrirk it.

He had shirked it to have noticed this particularly before. It was a seven-story white marble building—the warehouse above the ground floor occupied as a department. The manufacturer was ex-ecuted in the upper rooms.

The windows beside one of which he stood, were filled with costly bronzes; the costly ceiling of the room within glittered with chandeliers and lustres. Two or three of these great lamps had been paid for him alone, he thought bitterly.

It was strange that, at that moment, when he was waiting to know if his wife were true to him, the loss of the house should have occurred to him. But it had become, through long years of waiting, of penitence, and denial, a mania with full, reddish beard and hair.

Sam had concluded next week.

A BRAVE GIRL.

The Atlanta (Ga.) Journal tells the following story of the exploits of a brave girl in that country:

A few weeks since Pauline Vogler, a young daughter of Charles Vogler, living a short distance south of town, was riding her horse over the prairie, she espied a young wolf in the grass. She dismounted and captured, his wolfship, and was a bout to mount again, when the young wolf, after a brief hearing, the chief of her young pack in an appearance, another suddenly Pauline nothing daunted, mounted hastily and made off with her prison, the old wolf following in close pursuit until warned by some dogs of impending danger to herself.

This thing had worked a deep change in him.

Sam Bender was not the man to ask questions about his江山 or country. He only put his wife coldly away from him a little space, and waited.

At the most, he fancied that she had grown weary of the sick room and the man. But when she was put away from him, the old man had to grow weary in his bed. They had been a peculiarly loving husband and wife.

That morning Morris had told him first of the stoppage of his salary.

"Very sorry, Mr. Bender, that to have you back here again, but the salary ordered to me for one week. Very true, very true, Mr. Stouch has been in the habit of continuing his pay with some old retainers. But we are drawing in, sir, drawing in." The money was never so tight.

"Morris, you waited him from the desk that Morris called him back and asked him about Mary."

"A particular friend of young Crompton's, eh?"

"My wife does not know Mr. Crompton. Now, I'm afraid."

"No, better if you did, then, with a serious look. 'Mrs. Bender does. I meet them sauntering along in the evening together very frequently.' Crompton's an attractive fellow. 'Now, you know, gay, handsome, too attractive to be trusted with as pretty a woman as your wife, Bender, if you'll allow me to say it, Mr. Morris.'

"I will not allow you to say it, Mr. Morris. You do not know my wife. For my part, I am glad she has made a pleasant friend."

Morris had laid his pen and came outside of the desk-railing.

"Now, don't be offended and sulky, lad, don't mind me. I'm an old man that you know women better. They are nervous and magnetic, especially high-spirited, delicate women like you, Mary. If that be name. They grow tired of the jok-trot life as fast as you can talk, and then lay their hands on me."

They form a platonic friendship. That's the worst I ever suspected of you wife—a platonic friendship. But you were my wife, remember? I would as liek another and kiss her lips as palter in that fashion with her heart."

"I am not afraid, coldly."

"Of course you are, certainly not I'm sorry, I'm afraid."

"On the contrary, I am obliged to you for your interest in me. But you are mistaken."

"Well, good day, Bender. You'll be on hand to-morrow? By the way, though, it

Democratic Mass Meeting.
The Democrats of Calhoun County are requested to meet in Jacksonville on the 4th day of July, for the purpose of nominating Delegates to the State Democratic Convention to be held in Montgomery Sept. 1st, 1870, and for the transacton of other business.

By order of the Committee.

June 11th.

Last week we published the call of the County Democratic Executive Committee for a Meeting of the Democracy of the County, at this place on the 4th day of July for the purpose of nominating delegates to the Convention at Montgomery and for other purposes.

We do hope that every Democrat in Calhoun County will respond to the call.

You have every encouragement to be faithful.

Last April Connecticut returned to the fold of Democracy. The elections West have almost unanimously resulted favorably to the Democracy. New York gives us a more than hope for majority. Only a few days ago, Oregon, which last year went for Grant, elected a Democratic Congressman and Governor and a Legislature which will elect a Democratic U. S. Senator.

Out of four or five States in which elections are held before November only two will go Radical and there is a doubt as to whether they will go so.

So in November we will start with a tremendous "bulge" and "bulge" is a great deal in civil or military warfare. We will start with at least six States against two, beside the victory of countless municipal and other local elections all over the United States. If Alabama don't wheel into line it is the fault of the Counties. If the Counties don't come in, it will be the fault of the Beats. If the Beats do not respond, the responsibility will lie at the doors of the influential men of those Beats, and so the matter may be traced to "the people." Will the people not respond? Remember there is much in the "bulge." If we meet with only a corporal guard here on the 4th, our enemies will exult and our friends will enter the campaign disheartened.

Come, if only to lend your presence to swell the crowd. Come and help throw the burden off our beloved State. Come, and help to leave the heritage of freedom to your children. Come, and help the Democracy to kick the carpet-baggers out of the high places they have usurped. Come and let us take measures to remove the "fools and thieves" and put competent, honest men instead. Is there a man who will stay away? Can there be one having so little interest in affairs which so intimately affect his neighbors and friends, as to stay away even though himself may not be specially interested?

Turn out well on the 4th and let us show that the Democracy is not dead, but a vital, living and exceedingly large and formidable party. Speeches will be delivered on the occasion.

We would inform the Editor of the Selma Times, that the rat story which he copies from the last Republican and for which he says father Grant is responsible, is one of the junior's vagaries; the senior is not anxious to claim the paternity of that sort of stories.

While on the subject of personal responsibilities, we would further say, that although we have been a long time at the printing business, (over half a century) we are not in years so very old, and are not particularly anxious to be frequently referred to as father Grant, in terms which might mislead strangers into the belief that we would pass very well for Methuselah, or the Wandering Jew.

The Huntsville Advocate (I prefer Col. Hodgeson of the Mail to any other Democrat, for State Superintendent of Education) while widely differing in politics, the Advocate acknowledges his full ability to fill the place with credit.

Nearly every Democratic paper in the State, and every one that has yet spoken of it, urges Col. Hodgeson for the position. The Press as the Advocate says, is entitled to a representative on the State ticket, and we warmly urge Col. Hodgeson's claims before the next Convocation.

"We would inform the Editor of the Selma Times, June 15th.—Judge Dibble, who lost a leg at Port Hudson on the Union side, expressed himself strongly upon Judge Bradley's decision in the Slaughter House case. He threatens to employ State agents. Federal force should the argument show that Bradley's decision is without the sanction of law and his injunction imprudently issued."

Well now if this isn't the strongest, After fighting four years to bring about the death of State Rights, he proposes to fight again for its assertion. Too late Judge, you have found out your error. We say, let him be "thoroughly reconstructed."

After the 16th Amendment conferring the right to vote & hold office on woman, the question will arise whether the wives of those resting under "disabilities" shall be included. If so there will have to be another "force law" to that amendment making it worth a man's life to bring any "unjust influence" to bear, towards shaping her vote. Other wise, the heavy old wife will certainly get into power again through madam. We give this suggestion to carpet-bag Spencer, for what it is worth.

We acknowledge thanks to Mrs. Judge Alexander Woods for a plate of raspberries from the "Davidson, thornless" species. The cuttings were set out this season, and the berries we are larger than any strawberries we have gathered this year. Their flavor is most delicious. Mrs. W. is entitled to the thanks of the community for the introduction of this large and delicious berry.

The people of Spain have been looking around in vain, two years to find some one willing to take the crown. This goes to prove that there are no carpet-baggers in that country.

None of our Gadsden friends were kind enough, (or else they were loth to disseminate the information,) to inform us of the result of the election on R. R. subscription. We learn by a passenger that "subscription" was defeated by 21 votes—a close race.

What has become of old Appleby? We cannot hear from him. Has he shuffled off this mortal coil; "gone for" the crown of Spain; or does he lie sick in his tent? Will some one relieve our anxiety?

IMPORTANT.—It will be remembered our Agricultural Society offered premiums for the best Corn, Cotton, Clover, Wheat, Oats, Broccoli, Corn, and beef of cattle. The competitors for the various prizes were required to enclose their names with Geo. J. Turnley, Secy., before to-day week. Let those who wish to compete, come in and see Mr. Turnley. Will not the ladies bring on their honey?

We have been compelled to condense the column advertisement of J. B. Turnley & Co. to make room for editorial matter.

We see from the Stevenson New Era, and learn through private sources, that the other side of the Sand Mountain are, with enviable complacency, proposing to themselves to send another member to Congress, from that side. Without disparagement of the claims of the present incumbent, or those of any other gentleman proposed by them, we expect firmly to insist on the choice of a member from this side, in the coming District Convention.

It will be remembered that "this side," although largely voting for the "other," yielded, last convention, because of the "importunity" of the Huntsville delegation. Fair play &c.

Giving up the Ghost in Advance.

The New York Times, in a leading editorial article, called attention to the fact that on Monday last Oregon was to have opened the campaign of 1870 by the selection of a State ticket and a member of Congress; the Delaware and Kentucky elections will follow in August; those of Maine, Vermont and California in September, and the rest of the State elections will take place in October and November. The Times evidently thinks it is all up, with Republicans in these States unless something is done by Congress to keep life in the party. It had practically asked.

What is the Republican party doing to trench itself against the coming assault? Almost nothing. Congress seems to be unconscious of the impending danger, or if it is conscious, it is strangely indifferent to it. The controlling necessity of the hour is action. We must have a policy, and such a policy, as will satisfy the great mass of the party, and nationalize it. This cannot be accomplished until the last vestige of the reconstruction business is finally disposed of by Congress, and every State is fully restored to its normal Federal relations. It seems amazing that the Republican leaders in Congress do not recognize this fact, and make an end of all necessary work in that direction, before we enter the impending political campaign.

They have dallied too long with other work which they have taken in hand, and have thereby embarrassed and damaged the party all over the country.

Lothair.
We have not, as yet, had the pleasure of reading Mr. Disraeli's last work, but from what we can gather from the various reviews of it, it answers to what might have been expected from its distinguished author. After the obloquy attempted to cast upon the people of the South by the Summers, and his class, down to the negro, there comes gratefully across the water, the testimony of England's finest scholar and most brilliant politician—a man I mightily above our shunivers in every point of excellence. The compliment paid the South, in the book, is incident^l but more the less appreciated. Lothair and the old Duke (God bless him) are now the kiss Disraeli, because they speak well of us. The following is clipped from a short review of the book by the Rome Daily.

"On page fifty-one, in Lothair's speculations upon the ecclesiastical status of Theobald, it traspires that Colonel Campion is an American, was probably a Protestant, but he was a gentleman from the South, with nothing puritanical about him."—What could be better than this? A more delicate and yet more grateful compliment could not be paid the South. And again, on page ninety-two, the following is suggested made by the Duke: "I look upon an American gentleman with large estates in the South, as a real aristocrat, and whether he gets his rents, whatever his may be, or not, I should always treat him with respect."

"I believe that Colonel Campion has large estates in the South, but though really I have no right to speak of his affairs, he must have suffered very much."

"Well, he has the consolation of suffering in a good cause," said the Duke.

EXTRAORDINARY OATS.—We were shown the other day three stalks of oats, the Norway variety, grown in a garden by Mr. Wm. Goode and J. B. Truett. These stalks, though only half way up the boot when pulled, measured inches in length of head. One had grains, another 145, and another 140. Mr. Goode informed us that he sowed 50 stalks which came up from grain. Could this kind of oats be generally disseminated, we might never pass through such another winter for finishing stock as the last.

Our advertising friends will please excuse us this week. We are compelled to leave out several columns of advertisements to get in anything in the way of editorial or news. We will make up lost time to them by additional insertions.

The engineers, we understand find the passage over the mountain at this point, very easy—only 2 feet in the 100 rise.

Billy Laird made us last week just one of the best and neatest fitting pairs of boots we have ever seen. This we speak of so much to attract attention to our boots as to Mr. Laird's superior workmanship. He is capital at his trade, and would give orders for neighboring towns.

The Amateurs have in preparation the "Iron Chest" and will perform with it in weeks. The cast of characters is good—the Star, Sir Edward Mortimer—particularly good. A ample notice will be given. The money will be devoted to a benevolent purpose.

We noticed on Monday a colored 16th Amendment molding it out all day long, on the Court House steps, waiting for the proper officers to come, so that she could "swear it to somebody."

As will be seen from their column advertisements, J. B. Turnley & Co. have just received a tremendous stock of family groceries. Their beef tongue is remarkable, fine. We speak by the word, for we have tried it. Their sugar cured hams, and beef equal the tongues in flavor. They have molasses of the very finest, in bbls, half bbls and quarter bbls. In truth we cannot enumerate what they have not.

The prices for these necessities are fixed at the very lowest price. They are men who sell, profit or no profit—live men who seem to be determined to build trade. By getting things through in large quantities, their freights are not so heavy as would be if they shipped in smaller quantities. Besides they are most exceedingly clever men, and we hope to see their custom extend and enlarge. Townspeople, farmer's, all go in and see their stock. It will cost you nothing to take a look, and you will certainly make a ten strike by buying of them.

A Merchant in going into his ware discovered a rat trying to get to the molasses through the bungholes in no manner could he contrive to catch them with his mouth without precipitating himself into the barrel. His ship was nonplussed for a moment. After a flick or two at his pate with his hand, a happy thought struck him. The merchant kept quiet to see the result was assured to him deliberately drawn around and drop his tail into the hole and draw it up covered with molasses. This he would lick off and repeat the same operation until his appetite was satisfied. Now of course no one will be skeptical as to this oce.

And as a fit sequel to rat tale no 2 we have to record a story, vrouched by Capt. D. P. E., of this place, which not only demonstrates the fact that dogs recons but that they possess a language intelligible among themselves.

While walking along one of our back streets, the other day, the Capt. was attracted by a very peculiar noise made by a hog. Approaching he found their the hog, (an exceedingly lean animal) had stopped and "set" a snout, as a pointer dog would set a bird. A repetition of the peculiar sound, brought post haste, three other hogs round a corner, as least as the first; which number also took up position at a respectful distance from his snakeship—all assuming the peculiar position of a setter dog, on finding a bird. While wondering what would come next, the Capt. espied a very large and fat hog coming at a tearing gait, from a distance, to the seat of action. Without apparently stopping to take in the situation, the last arrival rushed in and presented his fat jowl to the snake. The snake avoided himself of the opportunity and fastened his fangs in him. No sooner done, than the other four hogs literally tore the snake into bits.

Now the fat in the jowl of the fat hog was unequalled to resist the effect of the poison. The same snake bite would have killed one of the poorer ones. They knew this, and consequently awaited the coming of a fat hog. The fat hog knew certainly what was the matter before he got there, as proved by the unhesitating way in which he "went in" on arrival. The first hog, in hog vocabulary, called out "snake" and all the rest, within hearing, understood it.

They nailed the man who vouches for this, and he will furnish anybody presuming to doubt it, a pocket full of affidavits.

Our friends must bear with us a little for the present. We are now very much crowded with advertisements, and cannot give as much reading matter and news as we would desire to. It will be better soon.

ENCOURAGING.—One of our friends from about White Plains sent us three new subscribers, and said he intended to send us One Hundred more before he stopped. Who will do likewise? Let every man that reads this send us in, at least, one more name.

As will be seen from the notice of the Probate Judge, in this issue, there will be no election for County subscription, as advertised. The Rail Road company have postponed asking a subscription from this county. When they show their faith more plainly by their works, they may ask it. In other words, when we see more in sight, they may ask us to help them out. Then will be time enough for discussion of the question in the newspapers. For the present the thing is at rest—the company paying all the expenses so far incurred.

Show going people will be glad to learn that Col. C. T. Amos' Mammoth Menagerie and Circus will visit our town on the 24th inst. Col. Amos, was a Colonel in the Confederate Army, and brings his Menagerie and Circus from New Orleans, where he exhibits during the Winter months. Col. Hyatt, the polished agent of the company has called on us and left an advertisement of the exhibition, which none will fail to read.

Felicitous.—Mr. Stephens sends out the second volume of his history of the late civil war, with the following felicitous and most beautiful dedication:

"To the memory of those whose lives, in the late war between the States, were sacrificed, either in battle-field, in prison or elsewhere, in defense of the foreign right of local self-government, the part of the people of the several States of the Federal Union; and in defense of those principles upon which that Union was established, and on which alone it or any other union of the States can be maintained consistently with the preservation of constitutional liberty throughout the country, this volume, I trust, will be most solemnly and sincerely dedicated.

While others may lay scattering flowers upon their graves, this oblation, with like purpose and kindred emotion, is that contributed by the author, to the same hallowed shrine.

Social Equality.—The Democratic Argus says that the "first effort we have ever heard of being made in this community, to establish social equality among the whites and blacks was attempted on the Schenectady and Meridian railroad, on Tuesday last. James Mott, a negro school teacher, while board the train from Schenectady to this place, very quietly walked into the ladies' car, and took a seat. The conductor walked up to James Mott and told him he was in the wrong, and that he must get off. James Mott replied that he was an American citizen, and manifested a strong desire to retain his seat. Upon being informed by the conductor that if he did not leave the car he would put him out, or worse, to that effect, he concluded that discrimination was the better part of valor, and left.

DRESS GOODS,

A NOVEMBER AFTERNOON.

BY REBECCA HARDING DAVIS.

Sam halted, and then went on.
Poor devil! I wonder whether women or whisky have driven him mad," thought Crompton, beginning his tune again a moment after.

Bender went down toward Fourth street with slow, resolute steps. His old strength had not come back to him in the last half hour.

Stopping at a large boarding house, he went in for Ward, the bank clerk. They had been old chums in Bender's bachelor days.

"Lead me to your revolver, Horace; I'll be done with it to-morrow. Money is broken, and I never bought another."

"Of course!"

Ward vanished and reappeared in a moment.

"What are you going to shoot, Sam?"

Bender took the pistol and turned away without speaking. He had been deaf and blind to every sight or sound of the streets since Mary's voice rang in his ears.

After he was gone, the tune recurred to Ward's lips, and unpleasant.

"I'll go to him," he thought.

Bent dinner was ready, and, being a feather-headed young fellow, forgot the whole matter speedily.

The pistol was not charged. Bender stopped on the way up the street and loaded it carefully.

It was nearly dark before he reached his own steps. Many opened the door before he could touch it.

Sure were yet her silk dress and her pretty collar of fine lace; her hair was curled tight, her cheeks were pink and hot; her eyes brilliant with a new fire.

"I saw all—what was it Morris had said about their hunger for a repetition of the old love-making days?"

She put up her mouth to be kissed as usual; he seized her hurried in after him, taking his hands.

"Poor old pap! He's tired? Go in, Jack; don't worry father now."

So skilled in deception already?

She was leading him into the dining-room, where his arms spread; but he had quite aside and passed over to his own room. She followed him.

"You are worn out! Why did you stay in the works all day? Coming behind him and putting her white hand upon his shoulder as if it was a child."

While he did not answer she drew his head back on her breast and kissed his lips.

That kiss set fire to the smoldering madness within the man; but he was always quiet and grave.

He looked her steadily in the eyes. How hard was the fact that was lent over him.

Some faint aisle of a spirit looked out of it which he had never conquered nor owned. He saw that clearly now.

She turned away from him at last and buried herself about the room—went down and brought up her feet.

The faint of play in the wife over, she became absent, as was usual with her now; her thoughts off far.

He took out the roll of notes and laid them down on the mantle-shelf.

"There is the mortgage money."

She did not brighten and flush as she would once have done.

He remembered how often she had taken out her pencil and counted up those savings in a triumph of drawing a little frame around each account, so that it seemed to him with a joyous little chuckle.

She secretly glanced at the money now.

"I cannot use it for the mortgage. Stone refused to pay the bank salary."

"Then you have lost your home?"

She came suddenly close to him, her face colorless, her dark eyes wet and full of pity. No love. He was not deceived.

No love.

No wonder she had some little compassion for the man in whose bosom she had lain for years on this night when she meant to fly from him.

"Poor old Sam!"

The loss of the house masters little to us now.

"Why, I thought your heart was bound up in it?" She paused suddenly, keen suspicion flashing into her face. "What else have you lost?"

"I don't know—there's absence, the husband and wife looking steadily at each other, the oil-lamp burning with uncertain yellow flames that flickered like fireflies."

"I don't know," he said at last in as quiet a tone as though replying to an ordinary question, "what there is left to me. There is nothing on earth that I can call my own."

"No, answered not a word; but stood motionless, with the same penetrating, doubtful look as before.

Nor, Mary was not naturally a reticent woman; all her emotions blubbed straight to the surface. She had been a gay, giddy girl; and now, when she was a mother, she kept house with what her husband censured as a most unmercifully light-heartedness; singing, laughing, laughing most of the time, and wasting away any trouble in a shower of tears.

Her immaturity now proved how deep his trust had wounded her.

"You're not like the world, though?"

No, she said slowly at last, turning to the window, putting her hand for support on an old chair that stood there. It was a worn and shabby chair; but she had nursed both the children in it. Jackey had sat in it, and little Jenny—Jenny who was dead; who would never sit again. Did she think of her? She looked at it, then, without a word, turned away and left the room.

He knew that she would never enter it again. It was strange how many of these institutions, among others, seem to call to him. He thought that pain in his heart, the great crisis of his life, had given him a spiritual cleanness of insight. Another person might have suggested that the devil helped him.

It was only o'clock; there were two hours yet to pass in the sun. He sat by the fire, pushing the poker between the logs, looking around him. There was nothing in the cheaply-furnished, pretty chamber that had not to-night a terrible meaning for him. He remembered when he had brought that wretched home, two or three weeks after Jackey was born; and, sitting Mary out of a moment, he had, without a word, turned away and left the room.

He had learned since to see things differently. When he set his heart on that marriage, he was suddenly compelled to open his eyes to the seriousness of life. It affected his religion. He began to see faults in the old friends who were in the habit of dropping in every day, finding Mary's house so pleasant; but he began to fear that his own and his wife's home would be less so.

To-night, for the first time, a dull doubt came to him whether he had not been to blame; her perpetual good humor, her eager interest in the people about her, her singing, her noisy romps with Jackey, had made him feel that he had become a wiser man since he had been ill. Sitting staring day after day in the corner, he had led more hollowly below the world was, how truer than men and faithless were women. Nothing was true but that; and as God, to Sam Bender, meant his own narrow notions of duty, there was nothing to lift him out of the slough in the thought; there was nothing in it either to check him in the slow, subtle madness that never hit his present purpose. What maddening fancies those two hours waiting to that unhappy man it is needless for us to know.

The house remained very quiet. When Jackey's bedtime came he heard his mother bring him the child to the bed, and open the door. "I wish he would not look in," he said.

"What maddening fancies those two hours without that unhappy man it is needless for us to know."

organization seeking admission into the fold of the Northern Methodist Church. The meaning of the resolution was the negroes were invited to the table first, and after the colored brethren had feasted

the white brethren who were very hungry might have the crumbs if they would ask for the privilege.

The Southern Methodist Conference

then gravely insulted, returned a soft answer by simply telling, in effect, Bishop Jones they did not ask for the privilege.

There may be much of christianity, but we are confident there is but little of human nature in the reply.

Our natural impulse would have caused us to have kicked James and his colleague out of the hall, but, of course, it is better to square our conduct according to the precepts and examples of our Living Master, yet if even departure from Christ in itself is justifiable, we are sure the Southern Methodist

Conference would have been justif able for pursuing a different course.

It appears, that these blatant

Northern fools, can never understand the Southern character.

The Southern Methodists want no union with them, and, hence, we see no probability of a blending of the two churches even on terms of perfect equality, while we know the Southern Methodist will never be guilty of an act of self degradition to accomplish it.

The truth is, it by trickery, a

General Conference of the South

a union with the Northern Church could be secured, the Conference would be without constituents, and

JACKSONVILLE, ALA.,

Democratic Mass Meeting.

The Democrats of Calhoun County are requested to meet in Jacksonville on the 4th day of July, for the purpose of nominating Delegates to the State Democratic Convention to be held in Montgomery Sept. 1st 1870, and for the transaction of other business.

By order of the Committee.

June 11th.

In Willard Warner (carpet-bagger) and George E. Spencer (carpet-bagger) (both members of the Republican party and the United States Senate) we have the difference between a man of education and position, on the one hand, and an illiterate, cowardly boor, on the other.

Warner was for some six years, we understand, a member of the Ohio Legislature and afterwards Adjutant General to Gen. Sherman—a position in the army which could only have been filled by a man of some merit. Spencer, on the other hand was never any thing, that we ever heard of, before the war, enjoyed the distinguished position of sotter during the war, and has proven himself a black guard and liar since the war. Both having been raised on us by reconstruction, Warner like a gentleman and soldier, stands to his pledged and endeavor through general amnesty and opposition to further extreme measures to somewhat ameliorate our condition. Spencer, the sotter, in a vain attempt to ape some of the extreme Radical leaders of brains, stands up in the Senate and spouts venom, written no doubt by a hired scribbler, at the people he claims to represent. With a shamelessness that would put the Devil to the blushing, in speech modus operandi says, full of it, he declared among other things, that he was a Repuplican and supporter of the Administration and its policy, was to have a mark set upon the know and a price put upon the head; that "to-day, in the South, there is no such thing as freedom & speech, freedom of thought [actions] or freedom of action," except in the loyal localities. He declares it is a subject of common conversation in the South, that the National debt must be repudiated, and payment of the Confederate war debt and for slave property exacted; that being "unmoderated rascosity and proverty" we grow more arrogant and hate the government worse every day—thus intimating that the border and confederacy should have followed the war; that the klux have a regularly organized Government in the South and are determined there shall be no peace under Republicen rule. Poses of this kind the sotter, the wretch poured out upon us, but we have not the patience or inclination to follow him farther. We started out, as stated, to prove the differences between two men of the same politics—one being an educated man and the other an ignoramus.

We again appeal to our friends to turn out well on the 4th day of July to the County Convention. That day used to be observed by us. It is now ours now, that we have lost the liberty secured to us by the Radicals. It is fit that we should on that day make an effort to renew it, thus rendering it doubly dear. Let every body resolve to take hold on the 4th and come to the County Convention. Enthusiasm in one's bosom enthusiasm in another, and one large turnout of the people will inspire such enormous hope in the breasts of all as will carry all before it from now to November. We can win if we will win. So speak, just give up their doubts and dastards, mutually no longer. The question is one in which every man is personally interested, and we hope to see a good turnout.

The latest stealing scheme started at Washington is a bill now before Congress to create what is called a "Freeman's Homestead Comption." It is proposed to give thirteen Commissioners enormous grants of lands in the West, belonging to the Government, which said Commissioners will sell and apply the proceeds to the purchase of lands in the South for the negroes. They will apply some of the money also to the education of the negro. The territory acquired by the white people of the Government is to be seized and appropriated to the negro; but there is nothing done for the poor white people. At present, a negro can enter lands as well as a white man; but this is not the thing. The public lands are too poor for the negro. They must sell Western lands and lay them view lands and give them to him. The poor public lands in the South will be left for the poor white men, who may enter upon them by paying the Government for them. How do white men, who have been affiliating with this negro party; like the picture.

Executive Committee 5th Congressional District.

The following list comprises the names of the Democratic Executive Committee, of this, the 5th Congressional District. It is to be hoped they will begin to take some steps toward calling a District Convention, in view of the rapidly approaching contest; or else signify their intention to do nothing and let the matter over to others that will. The same remarks might well apply to our remarkably active State Executive Committee.

Outside of Mosby's dispatch to the Talladega Mountain House, no one in this strong-hold of the Democracy knows whether, at their called meeting, they determined to hold a State Convention or not. "The people" begin to want a little light on these things. As stated, the following is the District Committee. We venture some of them have forgotten they belong to it.

A. L. Woodbury, of Etowah, City Chrm.

James Crook, of Calhoun.

John Pratt of Cherokee.

W. O. Winsor, of DeKalb.

J. W. Young, of Madison.

J. H. Moore, of Marshall.

James Foreman, of St. Clair.

Since going to press, we see the State Ex. Com. have acted. Will publish their Address next week. September 1st is the day.

The name of Government employees, clerks &c in Washington City is legion. In addition to this force, the Radicals have kept a standing army of negroes there, at Government expense, to do the voting of the party; yet a short time back Mayor Bowen, a firm supporter of Grant's administration and his personal friend, was badly beaten for the mayoralty. This was done within the shadow of the Capitol and under the very nose of Congress. When Congress fails to keep the small District of Columbia radicalized, how, in the name of common sense, do they expect to keep the whole country in that condition. The days of that party are numbered, and the party dies with the going out of the 41st Congress, in a short time.

There has been an election in Mobile, in which the Republican paper there, the Radical Mayor, and all other Radicals confidently calculated to carry the negro vote. But the negroes repudiated their former leaders and voted almost to a man opposite to them. The negro is fast learning that he has a right to vote as he pleases, and that he is not to be used as he is, as heretofore.

Dennis Dylons of the Decatur Republican, in speaking of the Gadsden Times, makes a manifest pun (the very worst) upon my name as proprietor, and speaks of the people of Etowah in a sneering manner as "refined" italics &c. If we could only understand what the old fool has endeavored to express, we might pay more attention to our part of it. For the "refined" people of Etowah, we will say, they were clothed in too much unctuous honesty to understand his refined rascality, when they gave him that $10, he came to Gadsden and begged, on his manufactured diploma, while on his way to take charge of the paper through the columns of which he now throws out snubs at them. Friends of Gadsden, has the old scoundrel ever paid that money back to you? Not, then his sneer is indeed in bad taste.

SLIVER AND LEAD MINES NEAR GADSDEN.

Cherokee Indians to point out the Place—Interest Extent among Old Miners—and people living in the designated Locality.

We are credibly informed that a party of some twenty Cherokee Indians, descendants of the tribe of celebrated Chief Kuskov, are on their way to Gadsden and are now encamped on the mountains near home. The object of their visit is to make known the locality of certain lead and silver mines said to be within one mile of the Double Springs just outside the corporate limits of Gadsden.

Parties interested have gone to this place heretofore, but could not find any willing guides until now who knew where the mines were, those knowing asserting that if they disclosed their locality they would be instantly killed. Some of our oldest and most reliable citizens are willing to testify that the Indians used to obtain lead in its native state, in less time than one hour from the time of their starting from Double Springs.

This information has created considerable excitement amongst the old miners and the people owning the land near where the mines are said to be located. Lands in the immediate locality have gone up to one and two hundred dollars, some parties refusing to sell at any price. Gadsden Times.

We learn that several citizens of Jacksonville have been purchasing land in the alleged vicinity of the silver and lead mines near Gadsden. The Indians have not yet arrived, from some cause or other, but are expected every day, &c.

Gadsden Times.

The Gadsden Times solicits the newspaper of the State to pass around one John S. Evans, a Masonic imposter, now on the rampage in that County. He has also endeavored, that paper states, to pass himself off as an ex-Confederate General. He is no doubt a scoundrel.

Mr. Bousley, formerly of this office, and now Editor of the Evergreen Observer, took so the Greenville paper, rather than a novel way of getting satisfaction of a Mr. Cunningham, a member of the firm of J. J. M. & Co., of Mobile. The parties had a disagreement in Mobile about money matters, and agreed to drop it until they met in F. C. Green. They met as by agreement, and Bousley, armed with a quart bottle containing four ounces of Nitric acid and two ounces of Cayenne pepper, diluted with water, broke the same in Cunningham's face, inflicting a severe wound. When last heard of Cunningham was still on the scene, with a shot gun in his hand.

The citizens of Butler County have met in Convention and appointed Delegates to the State Convention, now supposed to be on the 1st of September next. Their Resolutions are a model of brevity. The first provides for the selection of Delegates. The second, recommends another County Convention for the nomination of a member to the Legislature. The third provides for the appointment of a County Executive Committee; and the fourth, embodies their platform, which is sufficient for the purpose. We give it below.

We cordially recommend all good citizens and true patriots, to co-operate in harmony and with untiring zeal, in the effort to relieve our State at the ballot box, from the reign of misrule and corruption, under which the people now groan.

Mr. R. O. Randall, Sir Knight, Worshipful Master of Gadsden Lodge No. 236, one of the brightest Masons in the South, has been seen as Masonic and Local editor of the Gadsden Times. We congratulate the Times on the acquisition.

To the Indian, pretended fortune teller,

You are a humbug and a nuisance in this community. We hereby warn you to leave this neighborhood within 12 hours from this minute date. If you do not break up camps and leave taking all your effects, including that woman and child, which we know is not your wife and child, we will visit you with DEATH.

Take warning in time to save blood shed: Our eyes are upon you.

[Signed] I WILLBEEWAT, great A. D.

S. B. L. S. T. and father of death.

Since going to press, we see the State Ex. Com. have acted. Will publish their Address next week. September 1st is the day.

Don Piatt the Radical Correspondent of the Cincinnati Commercial, the most influential Radical paper in the West, in a letter to that paper, in which the situation is calmly reviewed, comes to the conclusion that it is all up with his party. Among a great many other things to the same end, he says:

Turning my back upon what I could wish for, and looking with calm, philosophical impartiality upon what is, I am forced to say there is no more cohesion beyond mere office holding and public plunder, in the Republican party, than there is in a rope of sand. For over a year I have been in Washington, employed to defend the cause of the Radicals, and to expose their errors and sins. I wrote the fact that while the democracy is a compact, well organized body, representing certain feelings, that make of its parts one efficient whole the Republicans are one party only in name—and each leader is the representative of a faction in hostile hostility to some other faction in the organization. Were a cause to be called to-day for the purpose of uniting any one of the more important measures now under consideration, its deliberations would be marked by personal abuse, violent discussions, and every evidence of latent suspicion. No such cause has been held since I have been in Washington, and no such cause can be held.

And after a review of the policy pursued by Congress and the Executive, and after letting out the fact that a great many Republican members in Congress would be severely reprimanded if they did not, we may suppose, be given a chance to express what we might say more attention to our part of it. For the "refined" people of Etowah, we will say, they were clothed in too much unctuous honesty to understand his refined rascality, when they gave him that $10, he came to Gadsden and begged, on his manufactured diploma, while on his way to take charge of the paper through the columns of which he now throws out snubs at them. Friends of Gadsden, has the old scoundrel ever paid that money back to you? Not, then his sneer is indeed in bad taste.

Dennis Dylons of the Decatur Republican, makes a manifest pun (the very worst) upon my name as proprietor, and speaks of the people of Etowah in a sneering manner as "refined" italics &c. If we could only understand what the old fool has endeavored to express, we might pay more attention to our part of it. For the "refined" people of Etowah, we will say, they were clothed in too much unctuous honesty to understand his refined rascality, when they gave him that $10, he came to Gadsden and begged, on his manufactured diploma, while on his way to take charge of the paper through the columns of which he now throws out snubs at them. In view of the recent "refinement" of Congress, the negro reconstruction song will do to quote. In the light of Radical law, there is more truth than poetry in it. Here again the 11th of July, and, if a sufficient number be secured, will proceed at once to organize. Many of the young have signified a willingness to go into the argentine and intellectual improvement the secondary. Wherever tried they result in much good both intellectually and morally.

It has been a great a crime to eat a nigger—

But a dandier bigger to stop a nigger.

But putting in his vote.

Be temperate in all things!

Chromes a Grecian, by a life of dissipation had become disorder'd so as to experience occasionally a state of torpor and insensibility. During one of these lethargic periods he had a truce. Then appeared a man who said he was a philosopher, and who on the 11th of July, and, if a sufficient number be secured, will proceed at once to organize. JACKSONVILLE.

JUNE 25, 1870.

We acknowledge receipt from Montgomery Bros., of a nice lot of Cannon Busters, fresh Lobsters and a very superior brand of Sardines—the best we have tested. The lobsters come in good time or lobster salads, and, of course, will go at once—other of their Fancy Groceries are fresh and delicious. Two more clever young men could not be patronized, and we know everybody will drop in and take look at their newly arrived choice stock.

Mr. John A. DeArman, one of the Census takers for this county, is at present in Jacksonville, and will be glad if parties will call at his office and give in their census—thus saving him the trouble of visiting each house, which he will do, as in duty bound, otherwise. He reports everything as quiet & prosperous throughout the county, and the people ready to respond cheerfully to every question asked. The population of Jacksonville, he says, will reach over 1200.

We have been shown by J. W. Garrison, Esq., a bunch of wheat heads from the farm of Mrs. Nancy P. Scarborough, in the fruitful valley of the Chequocco, picked at random, which average 75 grains to the head and four grains to the bushel—about 400 bushels. By the way, although a woman, she is one of the best farmers and managers in the valley. Since the death of her husband she has increased the value of her farm and property three hundred per cent. A strong argument for woman's rights, if we are to judge by merit and enterprise.

Gen. Burke, a citizen of our town, and his accompanied wife, left Monday last on a tour to Europe. Gen. Burke has done much since his citizenship among us, to forward the material development of this section. His Company, with adequate means have built up one branch of industry which is daily adding to its proportions and is destined to be of immense benefit to the town. Gen. Burke will make speeches in Ireland to induce emigration from that country to this immediate section, through the Port of Mobile. As he will make it a point to dissuade the minds of his countrymen as to the reputed social condition of this country, and enlighten them all in his power as to its multiplied advantages we wish him God speed and long success. Let the Enterprize equipment once begin to bid his way through the Port of Mobile, and Alabama will soon have her quota and spring forward in that rapid manner of prosperity, which has hitherto marked the young States of the West. We say to those whom Gen. Burke may address in the old country, to come along with the assurance that they will be most heartily welcomed and well treated. We wish the General a safe journey and a speedy return.

One of our friends having caught the fever, has exhibited to us a most remarkable head of Dog Fennel. He says he has not counted the seed yet; but is satisfied his "head" contains more seed than any other man's "head" around town.

Joking aside, Dog Fennel, when cut and dried properly, makes the very finest kind of hay, so the agricultural Magazine say; and it grows very readily in and around town. Can not some of our friends try this experiment and demonstrate the good there is in this now considered nuisance.

Please oblige us by answering that exceedingly fine hat ye Local wears. It came from the store of E. L. Woodward's Sons, and they have plenty more. JUST ARRIVED and cheap as dirt. And hats are not the only part of their fine stock which is going thus cheap. In every department, goods are astonishingly low. But to the hat—we love to dwell. We are aware how agonizing it is for a young man to find himself undressed by another; but when a married man "outshines" him, the suffering is simply beyond calculation. Put such nevertheless is the painful fact and will be until our young friends avail them of the beautiful styles mentioned at Woodwards. Go and see and—buy. We feel isolated as it is.

Whisman & Driskell have just received a large lot of Canvased hams, Bacon, Sugar, Coffee and a very superior quality of New Orleans Molasses. Prices low. Give them a call.

We learn that our highly esteemed neighbor city—Gadsden—laborers under a misapprehension to the part taken by Jacksonville in the recent R. R. election in Etowah. No one, that we have heard of, expressed any opposition to "subscription," and we know some here who own property in Etowah, and consequently had the right to speak, who were in reality for subscription. Jacksonville is a powerful place to attend strictly to its own business, and we regret that Gadsden could think she interfered or endeavored or even wished to interfere in a matter which concerned Etowah alone. Your labor under a mistake Messieurs Gadsdenites.

Our White Plains friends are still sending us subscribers. Will not Democrats in other parts of the country do likewise? The coming political canvas will be one of unusual interest and excitement. Radical documents will flood the country, and party friends should work to get a paper which will expose their tricks and sophistry, into the hands of every intelligent voter. Let every Democrat who reads this send us in one new subscriber at least. Think who among your neighbors it is, that don't take the paper, and go to him at once. Subscribers will be taken for three, six or twelve months.

Young Griswold who killed the Confederate General Zollicoffer in battle during the war, has gone crazy because he didn't take him prisoner instead, and was sent to the asylum.

We notice that Mr. E. L. Woodward is repainting and otherwise improving the buildings either street adjoining his store-house. It tastily improves the appearance of the block. Our whole town is susceptible of improvement in this respect; and we hope to see others following the good example set by Mr. W. Let's present a "clean face" to visitors.

We were glad to meet Mr. W. A. Marschalk, one of the Proprietors of that stanch and excellent paper, the Selma Argus. The Argus is too well known and highly appreciated in "these parts" to need commendation at our hands. We hope Mr. Marschalk may make up a large club to-day, 24th here.

Mr. McAllister in the room formerly occupied by Dr. Lawrence, is now prepared to do all kinds of fine work in the way of boat and shoe and harness making. He makes splendid Congress Saddles and Gentleman's Outfits, fine boots &c. We have seen specimens of his work, and know that he puts up a pretty and substantial job. Give him a call.

The graves of the Confederate dead in this city were decorated last Saturday with appropriate and impressive ceremonies. Bouquets and wreaths were placed upon the graves, and the Confederate Monument was festooned with evergreens, all emblematic of life eternal and undying love. The procession of beautiful young ladies and maidens, our young country girls, charge of Captain McMillan and Hedges, and to the sound of the fine tunes of the Funeral Band, Rev. H. Glass, of the Presbyterian church of this place, conducted the religious portion of the ceremonies. What can be more holy or more noble than this annual demonstration of love for the dead, by the living?

A number of bouquets and wreaths were sent from other States to parties here, to be placed upon the grave of some loved one. Miss T. J. Webb received two bouquets by express from Mrs. M. C. Lovell, mother of little daughter, of Jacksonville, Ala., requesting her to place them upon the grave of the departed husband and father.

Southland Democrat.

Gen. Joseph W. Burke, the Register in Bankruptcy, for this section of our State will leave his home on Monday, accompanied by his family, for an European tour. He as well as his accomplished wife carry with them our best wishes for a safe voyage across the "pond." They expect to be gone for several months. In the meantime everything in Bankruptcy, requiring the action of the Register, will be suspended.

A WONDERFUL MICROSCOPE

Rev Daniel Wise, D. D., editor of the New York Sunday school Advocate, thus speaks of the celebrated Craig Microscope: "It is a singularly elegant and direct microscope, and I have no one with which I can compare it. I am sure it is the best I have examined." The glass is by its self, and was struck with wonder at skill and power of the Creator which is displayed in its structure. When I saw a statement in an edition of the New York Tribune, that the English made one hundred thousand and could not buy for $2,50, I thought it was one of the hour, for I had paid $20 for a microscope not long before. But now I find it to be really valuable, and I find what I should have paid for it to be the same as I paid for it in place of the nameless fad useless toys which pass for an hour and then disappear. This microscope would beat any and any instrument that I advise every boy and girl who wishes to know the wonders which lie in little things to say, "I have it." It has $2,75, which will pay for the microscope and the postage will be sent by mail.

As a holiday gift this microscope is unsurpassed, being ornamental, instructive and amusing and always a novelty. Agents and dealers are invited on liberal terms. A sample will be mailed post paid, to any address for $2,75, by H. Ross, 313 Locust St., St. Louis, Mo.

The Trichinella Spiralis or Pork-Worm. Perhaps it is not generally known that the muscle cells of hog's meat or pork, when raw, was first discovered in America by Dr. R. G. Kendall, Philadelphia, Pa., with that American instrument known as the Craig Microscope, costing only $2,75, after repeated failures to discover the worm in an imported ham. The size of the worm is very small and less visible." This fact Dr. Kendall stands ready to prove at any time. Craig's Microscope in neat box with full direction is mailed anywhere for $2,75, by H. Ross, 313 Locust St., St. Louis, Mo.

A Sneaking Scoundrel.
Washington June 15.—There was an extraordinary scene in the committee on Reconstruction to day. Gen. Butler took opportunity of a moment when his adherents happened to be in the majority, to put a motion to reverse the former action of the committee, and strike Mr. Farnsworth's amendment off the Georgia bill. He declared it carried in spite of all remonstrances, refusing to allow time to send for the members, who were absent only because they supposed this question was settled. Mr. Farnsworth in a towering rage shook his fist in Butler's face, and denounced him as a sneaking scoundrel, with other epithets of the strongest sort, which Butler endured with calmness. As the representatives of the majority who had agreed to Farnsworth's amendment demanded a full meeting before the bill should be reported, it was finally settled that one should be called for Thursday.

Chancellor John Foster, of Calhoun, is proposed by a correspondent of the Advertiser as a candidate for Congress from the 5th District. Chancellor Foster is known all over North Alabama, and has a reputation for ability and devotion to sound doctrine, unsurpassed by any man in the State, and would be glad to see him in a position where the State could receive the benefit of his services. We understand, however, that he is ineligible under the 14th Amendment.

Houston Independent.

Some of the tax assessors of Alabama have assessed cotton in the hands of producers, for taxation. The State Auditor has addressed a letter to Messrs. Shorter & Brother, of Faufaula, in which he decides that cotton is subject to taxation as personal property, when in the hands of speculators, merchants or brokers, but that agricultural products when in the hands of the producer are not subject to tax, State or County.

A DEATH BLOW TO NORTH ALABAMA RADICAL ASPIRANTS.

The Radical State Executive Committee have set fire to the turpentine, so far as North Alabama's aspirants for office are concerned.

They don't expect any vote in North Alabama and have determined that the section of the State shall have comparatively no voice in the State Convention. They have determined to publish the list of the 5th congressional 15-vote component of the counties of Madison, Marshall, Cherokee, Calhoun, Cleburne, Jackson, DeKalb, St. Clair and Etowah shall have but twenty-one delegates in the State Convention.

And that the 6th District, composed of the Counties of Jefferson, Walker, Winston, Marion, Blount, Lauderdale, Limestone, Franklin, Colbert, Lawrence and Morgan shall have but twenty-one delegates in the State Convention.

The have determined that the counties of Dallas and Fayette go into the 7th District, and have made delegations in the State Convention and consequently that much more influence in the nominations than either of the Congressional Districts named. How do you like it? North Alabama Radicals?—[North Alabama.

A Gross SLANDER.—We read the speech of one Geo. P. Sweeny of New York, and the fact that the people of Alabama and the South, in the Senate of the U. S., too late, for comment this week. We will publish his charge made without qualifications or reservations against the people of the South next week, and it is due to truth and to the people of the South that he should be contradicted and branded as a base slander and foul mouthed calumniator of a people he pretends to represent. We make the charge against him that there is not an intelligent, truthful Republican in Jackson county, and we do not believe there is one in the State, who believes or would endorse his charge—Savannah Herald.

The annual report of the insane Asylum at Tuskegee states that, of the inmates, 18 were sent there by whisky, 17 by religious excitement, 19 by political excitement, and one by tobacco.

Look for Him.—All Masons are warned to look out for an individual claiming to be a Mason, now living in Calvert, Texas, named Isaac J. Hillman. Said Hillman is a dangerous character, and has been imposing upon confidence of the craft, both in this State and Missouri. He is about 5' 8 inches high, black hair, eyes, whiskers and eyebrows, dark clear complexion, is very plausible in general manners, and rather inclined to be very intimate on short acquaintance. Originally from Nashville, Tenn., and Weston, Mo.

FOURTH MEETING.—June 19.—The military authorities have been called upon to drive the negro squatters from a farm at Ocean View, W. Va., and the 5th article, was sent over for that purpose this evening.

Wool.—The Richmond police-man who thrashed Congressman Poffner (3rd C. of. B.) has been called before Congress to answer for it.

THE MESSRS. LOAS DINERS OUT.—Don Platé gave some interesting information of the Indian chiefs recently at Washington, D. C., before dinner parties. He says:

It is customary for those children of the wild to eat all that is placed before them. This Variegated Narrative and others proceeded to do well some resolution. Thus, a pot of mustard being put within the reach of Red Cloud, he immediately tossed it down. Then, while the tears came for the first time in his savage eyes, he seized Mrs. Field's finger glass, and after swallowing the same, that stupid lady's sanguine heart, he cast out. "I am, respectively yours, &c., Mrs. M. E. A. NELSON."

Read the following from Mr. Womble, a prominent Slave Merchant, Calvert, Va.: "No. 13 Market Street, Calvert, Va. October 12, 1860."

CHARLES LLOYD.—After reading the above highly recommended, I am compelled to say that he is a thief and that brand upon him he went back to his confinement. They have re-elected him. The inference is that in that district the "thieves" are in a majority. But the "thieves" have no right to say that those "thieves" cannot be represented.

A Democratic member of the House proposes to advocate Whittemore's admission on the following grounds: This is a representative Government, and Congress has no right to dictate to the people whom they shall select to represent them. The House branded Whittemore as a thief and that brand upon him he went back to his confinement. They have re-elected him. The inference is that in that district the "thieves" are in a majority. But the "thieves" have no right to say that those "thieves" cannot be represented.
